

Washington, D.C. Finds “Liberation” in New Novel

In earth's infancy, four alien races- two good, two evil - shaped its destiny. Unaware of such manipulation, humans have been misled from the beginning. Now a new awareness results in a battle for liberation fought in Washington, D. C.

Bowie, MD (PRWEB) July 12, 2010 -- Amora Madre has just experienced the shock of her life. Not only has she learned that her childhood imaginary friends are real, but they are not human. She soon finds herself in Washington, D.C., having been chosen by the Intergalactic Supernatural Intelligence Agency (ISIA) to fight an evil supernatural syndicate determined to destroy the balance of good and evil on Earth. Amora's mission is played out in Maria Lucia's new novel, “Liberation: Book One of the Andrusian Chronicles” (ISBN 9780984475544, Andrusian Press, 2010).

Joining Amora in her task to defeat evil is a cast of unforgettable characters, not always with much in common, but bonded together to save the Earth, starting with the United States, as battle is waged in Washington, D.C. Among those characters are angels, Love masters, unresolved spirits who want to do good, and the spirits of historical personages ranging from the Founding Fathers to Winston Churchill and Princess Diana.

Author Maria Lucia was inspired to write “Liberation” while living in Washington, D.C. Visiting monuments and the National Archives made the story's fragments come together as if the Andrusian race were calling her to write their chronicles. The novel has a special twist regarding the nation's capital and its founding, and Lucia was inspired by the intangible sense of power felt walking the streets, viewing the monuments, and considering what happened to make the United States a land of freedom. In “Liberation,” the concept of American freedom reaches a new level.

Readers who love history, science fiction, and the paranormal will find themselves freed from the mundane within the pages of “Liberation.” A tale that goes far beyond national politics, “Liberation” transports readers into dimensional worlds filled with dangerous and beautiful spirits. The journey ultimately reaches into the hidden worlds of the human psyche that will shape the future of Earth and the human race. s

About the Author

Born in Havana, Cuba, Maria Lucia immigrated to the United States in 1960. She graduated from the University of Memphis with a degree in education.

A professional musician and vocalist, she has been a musical director for church programs, a composer of music, a producer of concerts, a music teacher in the public schools, and she has traveled nationally, performing and delivering seminars for more than twenty years.

In 1997, Maria launched her first school focused on spiritual heart studies in North Carolina, and became a full-time spiritual growth teacher. She relocated to Washington, D.C., to develop her national dream, The Foundation for the Evolution of America. She is the author of “The Heart’s Unraveling,” a guidebook for her school, and her recent novel, “Liberation: Book One of The Andrusian Chronicles.”

“Liberation: Book One of the Andrusian Chronicles” (ISBN 9780984475544, Andrusian Press, 2010) can be purchased through local and online bookstores. For more information, visit www.AndrusianChronicles.com. Publicity contact: www.ReaderViews.com. Review copies available upon request.

###

Contact Information
IRENE WATSON Reader Views http://www.readerviews.com 512.288.8555